

Philip Webster – Short Bio

I am a graduate student from the United Kingdom at Texas Tech University currently working on my PhD. I acquired my undergraduate degree with honours in War Studies in the History department at the University of Birmingham in the UK. Then I finished my master's degree at the end of 2018 from Texas Tech University. I am continuing a military and diplomatic focus in my work at Texas Tech and the theme of my master's thesis was about the Australian use of armour in the Vietnam War. At this stage it is likely I will continue my study of the Australian contribution to the Vietnam War.
