Writing Terror on the Bodies of Women: Media Coverage of Violence against Women in Guatemala

I assisted Professor Sarah England in her book on gender-based violence against women in Guatemala. I read Spanish language newspapers like Prensa Libre and Nuestro Diario in order to identify common tropes, archetypes, and frames that justified sexual assault and rape in Guatemala in the twenty-first century.

PAPERS

Senior Capstone:

"'Hewing to the Line' of Racism? The Broad Ax Newspaper in Utah, 1895-1899"

Advisor: James O'Neil Spady.

My capstone studies the coupling of race, religion, and power within the Utah Black Press at the end of the nineteenth century. Specifically, I focus on Julius F. Taylor's newspaper the Broad Ax, an African American, religiously unaffiliated periodical that sought to give Utah's Black population a platform in which to discuss bipartisan politics.
