

Natalie McDonald graduated from Pomona College summa cum laude in May 2019. Her senior thesis—titled “Engendering Empire: The British Women’s Military Services in India and the Middle East, 1939–1945”—was awarded the Claremont Colleges Library Undergraduate Research Award. Her work has been published in the Michigan Journal of History and Wittenberg University East Asian Studies Journal. Natalie plans to pursue graduate work in international history, with a focus on twentieth-century empire, migration, and human rights.